HOLY CROSS BASEBALL

Invitation Which Furnished Stamford Mountaineers With Most of Last Season's Fast Baseball Aggregation Has Promising Material.

The New York Herald yesterday carried a story of the Holy Cross baseball team, the Mountaineers of Stamford last season was composed largely of men from this institution. Says the Herald: With just about four weeks remaining before starting on the annual trip Coach Barry, the Holy Cross baseball mentor, deemed it wise to do a little shopping with his eyes on the initial call for candidates ten days ago thirty men reported and today the squad numbers just twenty. Coach Barry lost three valuable men last June at graduation and will take some hard work to fill the holes. There is now a vacancy in the out-field, with two places open in the inner defense.

The Purple mentor will start with a veteran pitcher and one that should prove a big asset before the season is out. Moran, Gill, Tunney and Carroll are all letter men, with Burke, who pitched good ball but did not make his letter. Ray, the husky freshman guard, was retained by the coach, but may be relegated to help out the freshmen when the season gets under way. Tunney had a bad year last season, but was the first string man the year previous. Gill, the southpaw, has been the best pitcher since the season after a slight operation, so he will have to work slowly. Moran is still with the basketball team, and so has not got down to baseball in earnest. Carroll, last season's big field, is rounding into shape fast, and should be first pitcher. In Martin and Ryan, Holy Cross boasts of two veteran backstops, considered the best in college circles last season.

The weak spot on last year's team, first base, is still a problem. Doherty, Glennon, Butler, O'Connor and Sullivan are having a hard battle. Doherty should have first call, as he played half the season at first last year.

NOT A HERO TO OLDTIMER

Veteran of M. M. M. Could Not Be Forced to Admit Greatness of 1st Team.

A scribe in search of Mark Twain material was posted some of the gray-beards of Hannibal. He found one who confessed to being a few years older than the famous humorist. In their boyhood days they had attended school together, forged about on Pirates Island, climbed Holiday hill and pushed big rocks over the brink, and carried a pretty faithfully the program as described in "Tom Sawyer."

But while the visitor was asking questions he noticed the old timer was not impressed. So he asked:

"Innocents abroad was a great book, don't you think?"

"I reckon so—I never read it."

"And everybody says 'Huck Finn' was a masterpiece?"

"Uh-huh!"

"And 'Tom Sawyer'?" the visitor said, "was practically a story of Hannibal—you certainly liked that?"

"Oh, I guess it was all right for kids," admitted the boyhood chum, "but grownups don't see so awful much in it from what I hear."

"Don't you think Mark Twain was a great writer?"

"They say he was," evaded the old timer. "But I beat him once in a spelling match."—Kansas City Star.

Gotham Goes Back to Corset.

The day of the corsetless figure is passing, and except in the case of very slight and youthful figures some kind of support is the rule, according to a New York letter in the Pittsburgh Dispatch. For several seasons it has been the fad to dispense with corsets and the result has in many instances been rather disastrous.

So this winter the corsetiers are busy and the corset department of the shops are crowded with women who desire to repair the damage done by an era of absolutely no support to the figure, and before it is too late get back the slender grace brought about by a specially designed corset.

In an article of women's wearing apparel has there been a greater advance than in the corset. Once an object of discomfort and almost torture, in its present version it meets with the approval of doctors from the standpoint of health and from designers of clothes from the standpoint of beauty.

WALSH ON ALL-STAR TEAM

Former Overton Manager Named as One of Greatest Pitchers of All Time.

John McGraw, famous manager of the New York Giants, who is writing a series of baseball articles for a syndicate of newspapers, has placed Ed Walsh, former White Sox twirler and manager of the Ontario team during the 1921 series, on his star team of all time.

"Jaw" has the following to say about Walsh in Sunday's Utica Observer-Dispatch:

"Ed Walsh I have selected as a pitcher for several reasons. He was easily the most famous and effective of all the spitball pitchers. While with the White Sox Ed was practically invincible. A big factor in his value to a ball club was his marvelous endurance. He could have pitched every day if it had been necessary. Aside from his spitball Walsh had tremendous speed and splendid control. It was the clever pitching of Walsh, da, after day, that enabled the White Sox, then called the 'hitless wonders' to win the American League pennant and to beat out the Cubs in the World's Series that followed in Chicago."

Dartmouth Basketball Injured.

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 25.—Thomas H. Cullen, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., captain of the Dartmouth college basketball team, tonight was in a hospital here in a dangerous condition as a result of his collision last night in an inter-collegiate basketball game here with Miller, of the University of Pennsylvania team. His father, Thomas H. Cullen, of New York, a representative in congress, and his mother arrived here today and were at their son's bedside.

The Green star, who was knocked unconscious in the collision, was immediately taken to a hospital where it was feared he had been fatally injured. He regained consciousness at noon today and physicians stated that he had a chance for recovery. Cullen was playing in his third year as a varsity team member and held the inter-collegiate record for individual scoring.

In last night's game, won by Dartmouth with 15 points to Pennsylvania's 17, Cullen had scored 15 points before the accident.

Aggies Defeat Hamilton.

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 25.—The Hamilton college basketball team suffered a 13 to 17 defeat at the hands of the Massachusetts Aggies at Amherst on Friday evening. Burrows' work on the 15-foot line was a large factor in the Aggies' victory, seventeen foul shots being dropped into the basket by him.

HOW PIRATE QUEEN ATTACKED SUI-AN Engineer Just Returned From China Gives Details.

SURPRISE ATTACK ON SHIP

Guards Are Killed and Officers Shot Down During Fight—American Astonished at Deeds of Amazons—One Herculean Woman Pulls Down House Over Husband Who Had Locked Her Out—Are Backbone of Waterborne Traffic.

First-hand details of the attack by pirates on the passenger steamship Sui-An, November 19, near Macao, were brought to New York by George K. Webb, a mining engineer, who has just arrived from China. In an interview he said that the Sui-An, a twin-screw steamship of 1,245 gross tons, owned by the Hong Kong, Canton and Macao Steamship company, made her usual excursion on Sunday, November 19, to Macao, and carried a big crowd of people from Hong Kong who wanted to gamble.

"All went well on the outward passage," Mr. Webb said, "but on the trip back a band of pirates numbering about 50, who were among the deck passengers, and under the command of a woman, suddenly held up all the Europeans in the first cabin at the end of a revolver, and got away with about $50,000 in cash and jewelry. The two Indian guards on board who were armed with rifles, put up a fight, but they were taken by surprise and were shot and then dumped over the side. The pirates then rushed the gangway, firing their revolvers as they went along the deck and very soon had the whole ship under their control.

"One of the European passengers attempted to seize the pirate captain, the fiercest of the gang, when one of the band rushed up and shot him in the back. The captain of the Sui-An, who was in the after-part of the ship, the first officer being on the bridge, came rushing forward along the deck to see what was the matter, when the pirates shot him as well as the first officer.

"The whole thing had been planned and carried out by the female pirate captain, and under her directions the pirates stripped the Sui-An of everything they could lay their hands upon and then took the steamship to one of the islands past Hong Kong and left with their plunder in a big junk which was waiting for them.

Spare Captain's Life. "Before leaving the ship the pirate leader ordered some of the band to throw the wounded captain of the ship overboard, but he pleaded for his life and he was left lying on the deck.

"When the Sui-An arrived in sight of the nearest station at Hong Kong after the pirates had left the second officer, who was in charge, hoisted a signal, 'Doctor and Police, Urgent,' and the harbor launch, which was at the pier, immediately took police and doctors to the ship.

Mr. Webb said that the casualties on the Sui-An in the attack made by the pirates were three killed, the captain, first officer and chief engineer badly wounded, and four or five other Europeans and a number of Chinese who were among the passengers wounded. He added that a few days after the attack on the Sui-An the Hong Kong police were on board one of the coast steamships bound for Shanghai and took off all the Chinese passengers and brought them ashore. It was believed that the pirates had been captured with a great deal of the loot taken from the Sui-An, but the report had not been confirmed when he left. Referring to the pirate queen, Mr. Webb explained that the women who earned their living in the sampans and on the junks in the rivers and canals in China were bronzed, brawny women who went about barefooted, and were equal in intelligence and strength to any three average Chinese men to be found in Canton, Foochow, Swatow, Amoy or Tientsin.

He added that he saw one of these women perform the Samson act at Wampoa after her husband had locked her out because she had thrown his chopsticks and rice bowl into the Pearl river.

Brings Down the House. "Planting her feet firmly between the two sides of the house standing on the river bank, the woman got a firm grip and then gave a mighty heave of her shoulders which wrenched the supports and brought the fragile building toppling down on the discomfited husband.

The man emerged from the ruins of his home exclaiming 'Tung,' which is the Chinese equivalent of the American expression, 'Strong,' so the chee-chee walls told him, Mr. Webb declared.

Wife's Thrill Kills a Woman. "Excitement over watching a wild west movie picture induced an attack of heart disease that caused the death of Mrs. Mary McCormack, thirty-one years old, at a theater in Bayonne, N. J.

Builds Fire Under Car; Kills Man. "As the result of building a fire under his automobile to thaw out a frozen radiator, I. H. Mowat, of Toronto, Ont., in 1921, the gasoline tank of the car exploded, killing the man instantly.

As It Seemed to Oink. "When Mrs. Lorie was married the second time he came to Dick's home on his honeymoon. Feeling that congratulations were in order, the boy stepped up to his chair and, extending his hand, said with great earnestness: 'Hello, Mrs. Frank! You must like to get married awful well, don't you?'—Chicago Tribune

Youth Who Slays Bandit Who Robbed
Father Discovers Victim Is His Brother.

Belfast.—The history of civil strife in Ireland has brought forth no tragedy which, for its bitter irony, surpasses an incident reported from Galway.

A laborer sold a liter of pias at the market in Portlanna, receiving £200. The same night his house was raided by four masked men, who demanded £500 or his life. Tremblingly he delivered the money and the raiders departed.

As the last man was leaving, the young son of the house seized an ax and struck one of the bandits, killing him, whereupon the others fled. Removing the mask, the members of the family discovered that the dead bandit was the laborer's second son.

OTSEGO AND HEREABOUTS

Recent Happenings in Our Town and Surrounding Country.

Albert Oliver, the venerable O. A. W. engineer whose absence from Norwich has caused much anxiety for weeks ago, has returned home. He had been visiting relatives in Syracuse and was much surprised to learn of the search that had been made for him.

Digging out of snowdrifts has kept many in this section busy for the past two weeks. For four days Middleburgh and Schoharie were without train service while the passenger coach and engine were buried in the snow at Schoharie cut.

At the state judging contest between the county and several surrounding agricultural schools, held last week at Ithaca, Morrisville stood first in both team work and individual classes, with Gold-Skill second and Delhi third.

Hancock woodchoppers evidently are unlucky. William Cooper, while chopping in the woods last week, hit his swinging axe against a limb overhead and cut a long gash on the right side of his head. Frank Thompson, while cutting mill lumber with an axe, struck a splinter blow which knocked off the top of his rubber boot and sticking him, fortunately only grazed the skin.

A son, the twelfth child, was born to Roxbury recently to Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Brady. All are well and the last one was a very satisfactory Valentine day reminder.

The nomination of William M. Martin of Ithaca as manager of the Ithaca state hospital was sent to the senate for confirmation by Governor Smith recently. Mr. Martin will succeed the late George E. Dunham. The nomination was referred to the finance committee.

A number of deer are seen nearly every day in the orchard on Aaron Leckert's farm at Cook's Falls, eating apples that were left on the trees. They do not seem afraid of the railway trains and are sometimes within ten rods of the track when trains pass.

Abolition of the state prison at Auburn is advocated by Walter E. Nicholson and Frank E. Wade, state prison commissioners, as the result of an inspection of the prison last December. A new prison in the western part of the state is suggested in place of the Auburn institution. The recommendations of the commissioners hold that the cells of the present building are much too small, and that to rebuild or remodel the institution would cost only $100,000 instead of $1,200,000, the number they claim to be necessary at a cost that would be almost too high.

Mrs. Anna M. Purcell, oldest resident of Morrisville, died on Monday of last week, aged 95 years. She is survived by one son, nine grandchildren and one great grandchild.

SOUTH SIDE NEWS NOTES

Storm of Saturday Night Worst That South Side Has Had This Year.

The storm of Saturday night was the worst that South side has experienced this year. Yesterday morning the roads were filled to the fences in many places and were impassable to all traffic. The state road was plowed out about noon and a few motor cars got through during the afternoon, but the cross roads are plowed out only now and then.

A Welcome Arrival. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanford are rejoicing over the arrival of a little son who arrived Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The little man weighed 6 1/2 pounds and when a little older will go by the name of Bruce Roswell Sanford. Mother and babe are at the Ithaca hospital and both are doing nicely.

An Unusual Sight. Charles Griffin has in a front window a mass of begonias, an unusual sight at this time of year. One plant has several hundred blossoms of a deep salmon color.

Concerning the Sick. O. P. McClain, of Co. M, is suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism. Dr. O. C. Tarbox is the attending physician. The condition of the roads is so bad that Dr. Tarbox is obliged to leave his car on the side road and make the rest of the trip with a horse and cutter.

Miss Elizabeth Decker of the Hancock is suffering from sciatic neuritis. She is under the care of Dr. W. S. Dart.

Mrs. Viola Johnson is ill with a severe attack of stomach trouble. Mrs. Melvin Ward of the Hancock is suffering with the grip.

Chas. Wentworth, who is at the Fox Memorial hospital suffering with sciatic neuritis in a hand, is still seriously ill, although the condition is slightly improved.

Fred Hall is a victim of the grip. Mrs. Wilson Coe, who has been suffering from an attack of bronchitis, is now improved.

Miss Jennie Pooley is suffering from an attack of the grip.

James Smith, a local farmer, was crushed in a collar press last night, improving very slowly.

Ernest Whipple, a local farmer, was crushed in a collar press last night, improving very slowly.

A South Side Guest. Mrs. M. J. ...

Fierce War Over Cinnamon. For over 100 years wars have been fought over the plant of cinnamon. In their greed to obtain the fragrant cinnamon, finally the land fell to the lot of the Portuguese, who as cruelly treated the natives that they appealed to the Dutch, with whom they were on friendly terms, to come to their aid.

This nation for seven months held stage in the land, carrying on a fierce warfare in which many perished.

Finally in proceeding, the Dutch were having to yield to the natives, then their former rulers. They tried to keep the monopoly of the trade of the world, not a single cinnamon plant was allowed to leave the island. If the crop was larger than that demanded by trade, the price in the market of being lowered, all that was not sold was burned or thrown into the sea.

Attention is now given to many tropical countries, and much improved by cultivation.

TABLE MANNERS IN ARABIA

As Might Reasonably Be Expected,
They Are Primitive in the Extreme.

Manners vary according to time and locality, so they say. For instance, in Arabia a young woman's table etiquette is judged by the skill with which she scrapes the dish with her finger and conveys the results to her mouth. American relief workers, writing from Ismid, Turkey, give an account of a family luncheon party of a half-dozen Armenian girls who had been rescued from Arab harems that is a most enlightening glimpse on manners.

"It was during some games we held that the girls who had been in captivity among the Arabs acted out the native customs of their former masters. They ate without fork or knife or spoon from a common dish placed on the ground in their midst. One girl showed us how the Arabs eat hot food. With her finger tips she smeared the food around the edges of the plate with a circular movement, blowing her fingers from time to time. When the dish was well smeared, she scooped up the food with the same circular movement and carried it into her mouth. She can eat thick soup thus, and more quickly than you could with a spoon. The soup running down her wrist was licked off hurriedly and another scoopful taken, for there was a circle of girls around the dish, and the slow ones lose out."

Overheard.

"Now, sub, I just couldn't get no results with them dices. I only got one shite between me an' salvation."

BEAUTY THAT IS PERENNIAL

According to Medical Writers, It Can Only Be Destroyed by Inconsistent Mode of Living.

There is a beauty which cannot be destroyed by time. Like Venus, it is perennial, youth carried through middle age and the later years of life. Wise women are commencing to learn that year by year they are making history and writing it in themselves, in the pose of the head, the contour of the body and above all in the revealing presentation of the face. C. Ward C. Upthoff, M. D., writes in the Health Builder. The telltale years will tell their tale with inexorable certainty. It may be of wholesomeness, even temper, good digestion and trained nerves and these will show in the beauty tempered, matured and refined by time instead of made gross. The radiance of wholesomeness may rival the brilliance of youth. Or, instead, the history written may be revealed in a leathery facial hide, hardened by alcohol, tanned by cigarette smoke and discolored by the unneutralized toxins of dinners large and late, wrinkled into permanent ripples, the traces of a thousand nervous storms and sagging under the fat of a thousand excesses. No amount of application from without can change the exhibition of the unwholesome reles within.

Historic Tablets.

Some of the tablets in Leland Stanford university, secured from Babylon, show the imprints of the fingers that moulded them over four thousand years ago. One bears the name, Darius the King.

Keeping at It Wine Success.

It's the way a man sticks to a thing that marks him as a success or a failure. Many a fellow has won out at the eleventh hour just because he wouldn't let go. Don't be a quitter.

FOREIGN CIRCULATION

The prodigality in the use of forest lands by Americans is astonishing to foreigners, especially in countries like Sweden, Germany and France. France so closely utilizes her forest lands that she obtains one-seventh of her lumber from trees that grow along canals, rivers, and between lots, according to a bulletin issued by the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University.

On waste lands, areas where trees once grew, but on which nothing now grows, we lead the world by a disgracefully large margin. This area represents more territory than New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland. It represents an area larger than the combined forest lands of Sweden, Germany, Denmark, Holland, France, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal.

We have another vast acreage of semi-devastated forest lands that has been cut over and is producing only one-fourth of the forests it should grow. This region is almost as large as all the states on the Atlantic seaboard.

These vast tracts are being increased annually by three or four million acres. Much of this is taken from our virgin forests that will last no more than twenty-five years at the present rate of cutting. We had all the nations of the world in forest fires ($8,000,000 annually). We burned every twelve months during the five years ending 1929, approximately 2,000,000 acres, at an average estimated loss of $25,000,000. Insects are damaging our forests at a very conservative figure of $100,000,000 a year, and disease is destroying trees in great quantities. The per capita consumption of timber has been curtailed since 1908 more than one-third due to scarcity of wood and high prices. We are growing only one-fourth of the volume taken from the forests and actually utilizing not more than twenty-five per cent of the average tree that is cut down.

Confronted with this serious situation regarding one of the nation's most valuable resources and the increasing devastated and semi-devastated forest lands, we are planting through state, federal and private interests, not more than $5,000,000 a year. We should be planting at least as much as we use and destroy.

FARMERS AND SPORTSMEN.

New Hampshire Organization Seeks to Promote Better Fishing.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 25.—The sportsman sometimes has hard words for the farmer who posts "no trespassing" signs along a trout brook or in a tract of woodland that promises good hunting. The farmer feels a righteous indignation against the fisherman or hunter who carelessly or maliciously breaks down his fences and mows walls, and leaves gates open and bars down so that the cattle get out of the pasture. To remedy this situation the New Hampshire Fish and Game League has been organized to promote better sport and better relations between farmer and sportsman in this state.

The object of the league is declared to be "to encourage, assist and advise the state authorities in propagation and protection, to obtain the proper spirit of cooperation between the land owner and the sportsman, and to lessen and do away with the depredations and lawlessness of the irresponsible hunter and fisherman." It links together 47 sporting clubs scattered throughout the state.

In announcing its purposes, the league points out that the entire expense of planting millions of game fish and distributing many rabbits and pheasants by the State Fish and Game Commission in the last two years was covered by hunting and fishing license fees and fines paid by violators of the fish and game laws. The league estimates that the more than 13,000 non-residents who paid for licenses in the year ended June 30, last, brought into the state fully $1,872,800.

The hotel keeper, the garage man, the farmer, the sportsman, the sportsman, and in fact everybody gets a share of this," says the league announcement. "Slightly over four dollars each to every resident of the state. Is this worth having? Do you want a share in helping? Law violations are to be stopped and a friendly understanding promoted. The league stands for a square deal, thinks of the other fellow, and puts good citizenship above everything else."

The State Fish and Game Commissioner is made an ex-officio member of the executive committee of the league.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY

The Washington Evening Memorial. One of the most important events in the American Revolution will be fully commemorated when the Washington Memorial is completed. It contemplates a park on either side of the Delaware, at the spot where the American commander took his troops across the river on the dark Christmas of 1776, when the fortunes of the great cause seemed to be at their lowest ebb. The legislatures of Pennsylvania and New Jersey have made appropriations to cover preliminary expenses, and the acquisition of the necessary land has been completed. —[Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.]

The Family Prevention.

Confirmation of reports about the export of foodstuffs from Russia leaves little doubt that the Soviet government has definitely embarked upon the policy of shipping out food and leaving the care of her starving to the Americans and other foreigners. It is unlikely under these circumstances that the American people will long be willing to continue sending food to Russia. —[New York Tribune.]

Cradle of the Race.

It seems to be well proved that the Caucasians originated in the vast northlands of Asia. The cradle of our race is believed to have been somewhere in Mesopotamia, not far from the lands where the Crusaders died, and where, but a few years ago, their descendants mingled their bones in the same soil, fighting a desert sun and the Mohammedans. The men who were our forebears before the dawn of history moved an ever-scattering wave westward. But some of their brethren remained. Farsundered, the generations have grown more than continents apart during the ages of history. They are our cousins, perhaps, but a whole civilization removed.

The Gullible.

The story of a group of lawyers in New York who make a living by representing persons that for stated sums they can obtain the infame members of congress is probable. The congressmen know nothing about it because no one comes near them, but the gullible part with their money in belief that the members are reached. —[Philadelphia Record.]

Taming the Desert.

The French land fleet has easily crossed the great Sahara desert. This great stretch has surrendered to the tractor, the caterpillar and the bugz-wagon. A mixed flotilla of motor trucks and automobiles journeyed over the hot sands for more than 2,200 miles and made the dromedary express look like the funeral march of a Mormonite.

The travelers were able to readily defy any Bedouin bands that might be in circulation. They easily gave the raiders their dust. The trucks carried stores of petrol and provisions and there were also machine guns for defense, if necessary. A crossing of the desert was made in the matter of some 15 days. It was done without haste and it was demonstrated that a tractor quadron can cope with the desert under almost all circumstances. It would hardly do for a single individual to lead a caravan of the day.

Luxor, Egypt, Feb. 25.—Spurious relics, alleged to have been taken from the tomb of Tutankhamen have begun to make their appearance in Egypt, the police reported today. They said that thrifty but unscrupulous Egyptians, taking advantage of the intense curiosity of foreign tourists, are manufacturing imitations of jewelry and art objects found in the two chambers of the 3,000-year-old tomb.

Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter, leaders of the exploring party, found the tomb, but he left it to a decision as to when it shall be revealed. Negotiations with the Egyptian government are still in progress.

The number of foreign tourists in Luxor is increasing daily. They are flocking here from all parts of the world. Most of them are wealthy and are paying large sums for small objects associated with Tutankhamen. Little chips of stone, alleged to have come from the tomb, sold at $10 apiece.

London, Feb. 25.—Relics much older than those found in the ancient tomb of Tutankhamen are being dug up by the Anglo-American exploration party at work in Mesopotamia, said a Baghdad dispatch to the Times today.

Under orders from the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania, starting near the spot where the original Garden of Eden is believed to have existed, the explorers uncovered remains of the ancient city of Ur. They found a new temple in which the moon was worshipped and a building which was utilized as the "Moon's Harem."

A vase found dates back 2,000 years before the era of Christ. Remains of a brick wall were found which was believed to have been built in the second dynasty of Ur, about 3,000 years before Christ. This was about 1,000 years before Tutankhamen was buried in Egypt. Jewelry has been found which is believed to have belonged to the period of Nebuchadnezzar, a king mentioned in the Old Testament.

Hint in Peculiar Accident.

Cooperstown, Feb. 25.—Robert Hayner, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hayner, is at the Mary Immaculate Hospital suffering from a bad scalp wound sustained in an accident on Thursday last. His older brother, Percy, was chopping ice with a hammer for use in the ice cream factory. Robert was standing beside him. The older lad's attention was drawn from his work and a blow from the hammer hit, not the ice, but his brother's head, not far from the scalp wound which required six stitches to close.

George S. Edmunds, superintendent of motive power of the D. & H. company, who had been spending a few days in the city expediting the handling of locomotives here, returned yesterday afternoon to Albany. On Tuesday he is expected to tell the public service commission at the hearing in Albany what he knows about the condition of the company's motive power system. It is understood to be his opinion that the system is in a state of collapse and that the commission were not warranted.

VETERAN ENGINEER DEAD

Willis Bender, employed by the D. & H. Company at Oneonta since 1879—Funeral Tuesday at 10:30, Dr. Flynn officiating.

The death of Willis Bender, occurring at his residence, 102 Spruce street, early Sunday morning after a long illness, removes another of the older generation of D. & H. employees who have been retired and pensioned by the company, one who was always capable and efficient and enjoyed not only the confidence of his superiors but the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

Mr. Bender was born at Delmar, Dec. 15, 1850, and was the son of Cyrus Bender and Rachael Interson. He continued to reside there during the early part of his life and on Feb. 26, 1871, was united in marriage with Miss Olive VanAlken of Altamont. He followed farming there until 1879 when he removed to Oneonta, entering the employ of the D. & H. company and was assigned to duties at that time.

After he took a position as fireman and after a few years was promoted to the position of engineer, in which capacity he served the company faithfully and well until Aug. 7, 1921, when he suffered a shock and retired from active service.

Early in January of the present year his condition became serious and his daughter, Miss Egbert, was summoned. He continued to fail although his naturally strong constitution prolonged the unequal struggle until Sunday morning when he passed away. Mrs. Egbert remained with him to the end, administering to him during his last few weeks.

The funeral services will be held from the home Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. His pastor, Rev. Dr. John W. Flynn, will officiate and the body will be placed in the vault and later interred by the side of his late wife who died July 14, 1917.

Mr. Bender is survived by two sons, Frank H. Bender of this city and a younger son, Harry, and one daughter, Grace, the wife of William E. Egbert of Ridgewood, N. J., and one sister, Mrs. Ida Erick of Albany.

The deceased was a member of the First Methodist church of this city, of the Oneonta Masonic lodge and of the local division, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Brought to Oneonta for Burial.

The body of the late George N. French, accompanied by his son, Prof. L. B. French, of Sheffield, Mass., and by Edward D. Kniskern of this city, reached Oneonta Saturday evening from Sheffield and was taken to the Bookhout undertaking rooms on Dietz street. On Sunday from 2 to 5 p. m. old friends called to pay their respects and at 4 p. m. the body was placed in the Plattsburgh vault for later interment. Burial will take place today or tomorrow to his home in Sheffield.

OBITUARIES

Beautiful Tribute to Her Life and Character by Dr. J. C. Russell, Rev. Father and Friends—Services Held in Every Church in Oneonta With Her Son as Officiant.

The obsequies of the late Mrs. C. McCrum, held from the family residence, 15 Center street, Saturday at 10:30 o'clock, were private for the family and friends. In harmony with the expressed wish of the deceased, the services were simple. Her pastor, Dr. J. C. Russell, of the First Presbyterian church, officiated. He read the 49th Psalm and other appropriate scripture selections. Dr. Russell spoke tenderly from Rev. XIV-12, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, they rest from their labors, and their works do follow them." Referring to the life and character of the deceased, he spoke substantially as follows: "She had an outstanding personality. Most of us are indistinguishable from the mass. Now and then one stands out conspicuously from the others. Such was Mrs. McCrum. She was a woman of high character. She was a woman of a different angle from many women in fact."

She possessed a fertile brain, an acute intellect. She scintillated with Scotch wit. She was always throwing off sparks. She had an open mind and was always hospitable to new truth, but she demanded the password. She insisted that it should be real and not counterfeit. She lived in the twentieth century and thought in terms of her age. She kept her face forward. She came from rugged Scotch stock, intelligent and high minded. She was surrounded by good books from earliest childhood, and breathed an atmosphere of culture. She read and thought and inwardly digested. Hence her mind was a storehouse of beautiful things. She was not a harp of one string. She possessed abundant resources.

She was a woman of varied interests. She did not neglect her home, but she found time for many useful activities. She stood for good things. She was zealous in all good works. She identified herself with the community activities. She was a community builder. All kinds of uplift organizations appealed to her, especially those in behalf of unfortunate or neglected boys and girls. Such work never failed to arouse her sympathies and elicit her support. Her charities were many. She not only gave with her hand but with her heart also—heart and hand worked together. She gave most when she gave herself.

She was a woman of profound convictions. She was not tossed about by every wind. She knew where she stood and what she believed. She thought things out for herself. She built her house upon a rock. Her character was anchored to the eternal. She possessed very high ideals. She lived as we all have to do—in the commonplace, but she was not of it. She had a vision of the unseen. She looked not only forward, but upward. She strove for the unattainable. She hitched her wagon to a star.

She was deeply religious. With what particular church she was affiliated, what creed she professed, matters little now. She believed in God and in the life hereafter. Religion and life interlarded, ennobled. They were a warp and woof of the same piece. Hence she lived on a higher plane. Her life was a constant upward and every common rush and shove.

She stands for a noble type of self-sacrifice, which is the culminating point of religion. Her devotion to duty was very great. She could not run away from responsibility—she was willing to pay the price. She lived for others. She deserves the crown, because she was faithful unto death. In later years she became acquainted with sorrow and apprehension and grief. They became her constant companions. She broke down under the load and passed into the shadow. She gave her life for her friends, because she loved truth.

Her life now divides. Henceforth she lives two lives—a conscious one some where across the great divide in the glorious summer land we call heaven. But she will live on here through her influence—that subtle something that emanated from her life and which impressed her personality upon others. Who can measure that influence? Who can weigh in the balance that unseen power? Many will live up in later years and call her blessed. Well done, choice soul. Thy work here is done. Thy life is finished. Thy warfare ended.

At the close of this beautiful tribute to her, Dr. Russell offered a feeling prayer for the surviving members of her family and friends. The body was placed in the vault at Riverside for later interment in the family plot there. The bearers were Messrs. Everett J. and Louis C. Curney, Irving H. Rowe, Charles E. Shellen, Harry W. Lee and Arthur H. Brownell.

The relatives present were in attendance at the home of Dr. E. C. Hamilton of Stamford and Sheris D. Ogden of Philadelphia, Pa.

Death of Mrs. Edward Brownell.

EMERGENCY COAL DELIVERY SERVICE

THIS COMPANY has just received one car containing about 50 tons of FRESH-MINED PEAK COAL (carrying our guarantee of quality and not a washery product).

In view of the PRESENT EMERGENCY (many households being without fuel for kitchen range use) this coal will be distributed in manner following:

THIS COAL has been placed in bags containing 100 pounds each and will be distributed by trucks along a routing made out at our office this morning in the same manner as we have distributed ice during the past twenty years.

IN ORDER to procure coal by this emergency service, please observe this:

1. Deliveries will NOT be made to any consumer having on hand more than 300 lbs. of chestnut, range or pea coal.
2. Telephone 194 or 710 before 11:30 this morning or SEND in your order to our Main street office stating your name, address and number of bags you wish delivered (not exceeding three). In using telephone please be brief as possible. We have much to do and will appreciate cooperation.
3. HAVE SOMEONE at your residence during afternoon prepared to receive the coal and pay for same at rate of 75c for one bag, $1.35 for two bags, $1.90 for three bags. Please have exact change ready if possible. Trucks will leave our yard at 1 p. m. The foregoing prices are respectively 35c, 40c and 50c lower than our regular established prices for individual deliveries of pea coal where carried in.
4. DO NOT send truckmen to our coal yard for pea coal today. This service is cheaper and avoids congestion, leaving our yard open to distribution of other coal.
5. This service is OPEN TO ANYONE HAVING NEED OF IT and is not restricted to regular customers, nor does it involve any obligation, legal or moral, to ever patronize us in the future. This company's policy is to recognize its merchandise as the property of citizens generally in time of stress, subject only to a fair charge for storage and distribution and reasonable profit for the service rendered.

THE FOREGOING DISTRIBUTION PLAN will be continued so long as the fuel situation demands, provided it receives sufficient patronage to justify continuance, subject to State Fuel Administration control and subject to supply of coal. WATCH this paper for further announcements.

THE PLAN above set forth has the approval of the Otsego County Fuel Administrator as to method and prices charged.
